MARRIAGE PREPARATION COURSE

Many couples take a "marriage preparation" course before tying the knot. But the one issue the class never covers is the concept of the Prenuptial Agreement. A Prenuptial Agreement is fundamentally a legal financial plan, and involves future planning. It may be the most important financial decision a spouse will make. The negotiation of the Agreement must respect this.

The traditional approach we often see is a fiancé is presented with a draft Prenuptial Agreement, and then he or she seeks independent legal advice. The parties may have discussed the Agreement, and even agree on the broad concepts, but the lawyer's job is to present all flaws and look at the "worst case scenario". The fiancé usually leaves this meeting feeling a bit overwhelmed and down-trodden. Not a great start to a negotiation or marriage.

At Balbi and Company, our preferred process is to initially meet with our client for legal advice; and then have a meeting with both love birds and lawyers to cooperatively craft the Agreement unique to their situation. Both parties are involved in the process, questions are considered as they arise and both parties can openly discuss their philosophy of financial sharing (or not sharing) after marriage.

Then, when the Agreement is drafted, both parties already know what it will say, with no surprises. Surprises are better for marriage proposals, not legal contracts!

RELOCATION SUCCESS IN MORNING CHAMBERS (NO LESS)

We represented a client this past summer who wanted to move imminently with her 14 year old daughter to a town 350 kilometres from Calgary. The client did not understand that she needed either permission from the father to move, or a Court Order. The father would not consent to the move and the mother wished to move and get settled before the new school year began, one month away. We had to bring an application very quickly and the only option was to apply to the Court in Morning Chambers. Normally such an application would require a trial, or at least a Special Application which allows for oral evidence and more time to present arguments. Because of the time crunch, neither of those options were viable for the client and because of the facts of the case, it was determined that an application to Morning Chambers should be made.

Fortunately for our client, the facts were in her favour as the father had not been overly involved with the child, nor had he taken any steps to be involved with the child over the last several months – although the father contested this. With a detailed Affidavit and corroborating documentation, we took the matter to the Judge. The Judge decided that the child could relocate with our client. Our client and her daughter were able to move in time to settle in one week before school began in September.

What do lawyers wear to Court?

Lawsuits of course!

Q: How many lawyers does it take to change a lightbulb?

A: Such number as may be deemed to perform the stated task in a timely and efficient manner within the strictures of the following agreement: Whereas the party of the first part, also known as "Lawyer", and the part of the second part, also known as "Lightbulb", do hereby and forthwith agree to a transaction wherein the party of the second part (Lightbulb) shall be removed from the current position. The aforementioned removal transaction shall include, but not be limited to, the following steps:

1) The party of the first part (Lawyer) shall, with or without elevation at his option, by means of a chair, stepstool, ladder, or any other means of elevation, grasp the party of the second part (Lightbulb) and rotate the party of the second part (Lightbulb) in a counter-clockwise direction, this point being non-negotiable.

2) Upon reaching a point where the party of the second part (Lightbulb) becomes separated from the party of the third part (Receptacle), the party of the first part (Lawyer) shall have the option of disposing of the party of the second part (Lightbulb) in a manner consistent with all applicable provincial, local and federal statutes.
